

Welcomes to English class! Literacy Volunteers of Tucson (LVT) is a non-profit organization that trains volunteers to teach English classes. LVT works with Pima County Public Libraries, schools, and churches to provide these free English classes to you.

To help you have a positive experience in your English class, we ask you and your teachers to make the following agreements:

Your teachers agree to:

- Arrive on time ready to teach
- Provide a safe, positive learning environment
- Treat you with respect
- Create lessons to meet your interests and needs
- Help you assess your learning and achievements
- Give you two weeks notice if class dates or times change

You (the student) agree to:

- Come to class regularly and on time (no more than 4 absences)
- Call if you cannot come to class_____
- Treat your teachers and classmates with respect
- Tell your teacher what you want to learn
- Tell your teacher if you need to withdraw from class
- If you have a problem that you cannot resolve with the help of your teacher, call Literacy Volunteers of Tucson at 882-8006. Ask for Jennifer Stanowski, ELAA Program Manager.
